College Art Leaders To Meet Here Today

Highlighting the College Art Conference of Missouri, which meets today on the MSC campus, will be an address by Miss Emily Genauer, art critic of the New York Herald-Tribune. Representatives from all of the state colleges and many private colleges and universities in the state are expected to attend the conference. Meetings will be held in the Olive DeLace Fine Arts Building, named for the chairman emerita of the MSC Art Department, who was one of the founders of the College Art Conference.

The opening general session will be in the Charles Johnson Theater. After the main address at 11 a.m. the conferees will have an informal luncheon

Debate Cross-Fire Reveals Pros, Cons of Repealing 14b

Crackling rebuttal marked the fast moving debate held Monday evening in the Blue Room of the Union Building between representatives of the AFL-CIO and the National Association of Manufacturers.

The debate concerned whether or not section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act should be repealed. Section 14b provides that the separate states have the right to allow or reject union shops. Such shops exist when the employee must join the union shortly after being employed.

Jack Lovett, Kansas City, represented the AFL-CIO. He said that the 19-year old Taft-Hartley Act denies union security and clashes with the policy of collective bargaining. He said that unions today are trying to raise the standard of living by furthering the power of labor organizations and that in non-union shops non-union workers enjoy the advantages obtained by union contracts. In concluding his opening remarks, Lovett stated, "Unions need security to succeed in collective bargaining."

In his opening remarks, John E. Tate, representative for NAM, gave a short review of the labor movement in the United States. He said, "Good unions do not need to require membership."

Tate insisted that if 14b were repealed, "half a million people would be thrust into labor unions involuntarily. In effect, this amounts to selling people into slavery," he added.

In rebuttal, Lovett said, "On employers who are trying to defeat unions are pushing 14b, at Armstrong's Restaurant and will reconvene for group discussions in the afternoon.

Also featured during the meeting will be an exhibition of faculty work from the state colleges and Lincoln University. Student work from participating colleges will be on display in the corridors.

Primary function of the conference, according to Robert Sunkel, acting chairman, Department of Art, is the valuable exchange of ideas among the different faculties concerning the teaching of art at the college level.

The conference usually meets at the University of Missouri in the fall and at one of the other colleges in the state in the spring.

but fair employers want to pay workers what they deserve."

"No one has the right to hold a gun to the workers' heads and force them to pay dues. Any union which needs the power of the gun is not much of a union," Tate countered.

In summary, Lovett said, "The repeal of 14b is a necessity if labor unions are to continue responsibly. Unions must either act responsibly or disintegrate."

Tate summarized his stand by saying, "If unions are doing a good job, why is there a need for workers to be forced to join? If they are doing a bad job, why should workers be forced to join?"

The debate was moderated by C. Marlin Henderson, former field examiner for the NLRB. The speakers were brought to MSC by the Social Science Club with arrangements being made by Diane Whitney, president of SSC, and James Hurst, sponsor.

Service Club to End Paperback Sale Today

Ambassador Application Deadline Is Scheduled for Wednesday

By Bob Bosch

Going somewhere? Would you like to go somewhere like Mexico or Canada?

Are you a sophomore or a junior who plans to return to MSC next year?

During that year, would you be willing to speak to campus and community groups about your 8-to-12-week experience in one of the other North American countries?

If you would like to go to Canada, will you be 20 years old by July 1? Have you had experience in camp, youth, or social work?

If you would like to visit Mexico, are you currently completing your second year of Spanish language study? Or would you be willing to finance a trip to Putney, Vt., for an intensive pre-departure Spanish language training session?

If you can answer these questions affirmatively, you may have an opportunity to represent yourself, your school, your community, and your nation in the Community Ambassador Program.

Under the leadership of President Robert P. Foster, Northwest Missouri State College recently announced that it would participate in the CAP, a part of The Experiment in International Living. Each summer the college plans to finance a summer abroad for the students, who will share their experiences with people on campus and in the community.

The original plans, which include sending the initial community ambassadors during the summer of 1967, have been accelerated. Two representatives, as well as two alternates, will be selected through an application form, four references, and interviews to participate in the program this summer. The Union Board has appropriated funds for this summer's participation.

Two delegates from the Union Board, seven from the Student Senate, and seven faculty-administration members compose the steering committee for the Experiment. Union Board representatives include Jack McClure and Steve Ford. Senators helping to coordinate the program are Dottie Hardyman, Rosie Bartlett, Lonnie Hersh, Ed Lambright, Chuck Kilpatrick, Mike Thompson, and Bob Bosch.

The student-faculty-administration steering committee for the Community Ambassador Program will meet students interested in visiting Canada or Mexico this summer at 5 o'clock Tuesday in the Rose Room of the Union.

Committee members will explain points of the program and answer questions.

Other committee members are Miss Karen Licklider, chairman; Everett Brown, Don Hagan, Robert Landes, Dr. Lawrence Zillner, Miss Mary Jackson, and Mrs. John Mauzey.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD of the newly organized Independent Student Organization are Becky Dunfee, vice president; Jon McAvoy, president; and Sue Shew, treasurer.

New GDI Group Desires To Strengthen Independents

"Independents interested in joining our organization and helping to give Independents a voice on campus should attend our next meeting."

This is the statement of Jon McAvoy, the newly elected president of the Independent Student Organization known as the GDI. Over 100 students now attend meetings which are held twice a month at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays in the Rose Room.

One reason for the GDI being organized at MSC is to increase school spirit among the Independents, McAvoy said. Any Independent may make application for membership to the organization.

The Student Senate is in the process of approving the organization's constitution. After local approval, the GDI will be affiliated with the National Independent Organization in Jefferson City.

Becky Dunfee, secretary, stated as her reason for supporting GDI: "To help eliminate the disorganization of Independent participation in campus affairs."

Plans are being made to try to get Independent representation in the Student Senate and on the Union Board. An Independent Week is also being considered for this spring.

Sue Shew, a freshman, was looking to the future when she stated: "In time, I think the GDI organization will be so well established that any Independent will be proud to say, 'I am an Independent at MSC.'"

Alumnae to Hold Annual Hat Boutique

The Maryville Delta Zeta Alumnae will hold their annual Hat Boutique at 2 p.m. Mar. 26 in the Rose Room of the Union.

Mrs. Lloyd White, Kansas City, will give a humorous hat talk. Refreshments will be served and a door prize will be given. Profits will be given to the State Training Center for the Mentally Retarded in Maryville.

Installation services will be held at 5:30 p.m. this evening in the Blue Room of the Union for a new chapter of the biological honorary society, Beta Beta Beta.

The Iota Beta chapter will be invested by Dr. John C. Johnson Jr., Kansas State College of Pittsburg, vice-president of the North Central Region of the society. He will be assisted by several students from the Pittsburg chapter.

Beta Beta Beta seeks to encourage students of the biological sciences to attain scholarship through reserving membership to those who achieve superior academic records and who indicate special biological aptitudes.

The organization emphasizes a three-fold program of stimulation for high scholarship, dissemination of scientific knowledge, and promotion of biological research.

The MSC chapter was organized last year. In October the group submitted its request to become an official chapter of the national society. A two-thirds vote of approval by all other societies was required for membership.

Officers for the Iota Beta chapter are Gary Shields, president; Tom Carr, vice-president; Alice Maxwell, secretary; and Mary Ann Nelson, historian. Dr. Kenneth Minter is serving as chapter counselor.

Following the installation banquet, Dr. Wilbur R. Enns, University of Missouri entomologist, will present a paper on "Sound Production by Insects."

Acting Star Cited as 'Coed of March' By National Cardinal Key Society

Eddielea Roe has been chosen by the members of Cardinal Key National Honor Sorority as Coed for the Month.

A senior from St. Louis, Miss Roe has been cited for her outstanding contributions in the field of drama. Last year as vice president, and this year as president of Alpha Psi Omega, she has been an active leader of the national dramatics honorary group.

During her years at MSC, Miss Roe has had roles in five major productions and has served on the technical crew for almost all other MSC plays.

Library Study Unit Becomes Lounge

James Johnson, Wells librarian, has announced the conversion of a former study room into a lounge with pop and candy machines and comfortable chairs.

A pop machine has been installed in the room, which is on first floor next to the reserve room. A candy machine has also been installed and temporary furniture placed in the room. New sectionals and easy chairs have been ordered. New table arm chairs will also be available in the room.

Students are asked to restrict their eating, drinking, and smoking in the library to this one room.

Walker All Stars To Play for Dance

The Union Board will sponsor an all-school informal dance featuring Junior Walker and the All Stars from 8 p. m. to 12 p. m. next Friday in Lamkin Gymnasium.

Two records made by the All Stars are "Shot Gun" and "Hot Cha." The Central Party committee headed by Joe Logan is in charge of the event.

The dance will be free to all students.

KDLX Staff Installs New Equipment

NEW STUDIOS are now being used by Radio Station KDLX. New equipment valued at about $700, installed by the technical staff, was put into operation last week. The new studios offer more control of the programming that goes out to the listeners. In the picture above, news director Tom Mann in studio B, is about to give the cue to program director Jim Shoning in studio A.

Dr. Robert P. Foster, NWMSC president, will be the speaker. Forensic students to be initiated are Linda Brinton, Linda Hornaday, Terry Lutz, Suzie Potts, Wayne Brinton, Nshan Erganian, and Bob Garms. They have competed in intercollegiate forensic tournaments to make them eligible for membership.

Officers for the 1966-67 school year also will be installed at the banquet. Ron Wineinger, Stanberry, was re-elected president of the local chapter. He has been active in intercollegiate debate, discussion, and after-dinner speaking.

Vice-president-elect, Linda Hornaday, North Kansas City, has won awards in debate and extemporaneous speaking. Linda Brinton, Ellsworth, Iowa, secretary-elect, has competed in debate, oratory, and extemporaneous speaking. Nick Erganian, St. Joseph, will be the chapter's new treasurer. His competitive divisions are debate, extemporaneous speaking, and oratory.

Active members of Pi Kappa Delta spend most of their weekends in intercollegiate forensic competition. The local chapter sponsors an annual tournament here the second week in December. Members present programs for local organizations and area high schools to demonstrate debate, oratory, and oral interpretation.

Cloth Glove

The traffic whizzes past me slowly
 As I sit and ponder and meditate on past failures and future mistakes.
 My cloth gloves are warm when I'm in this house;
 Outside they're too cheap to hold the ice away.
 Don't mind me, my fellow man; flee from my wretched side and go on eating your peaches in a heavy syrup.
 Mine is a world of fadedness and fatigue,

I am unworthy of Heinz catsup and VanCamp beans, even the off-brand beans I eat should be void of pork. Glut yourself, my lucky counterpart; you are going to eternal bliss while I live in limbo.

My goodness, don't you know the fear of wearing a short tie and a wide belt?

Put on your brown socks, my girl, and you can go downtown to see the circus people, And maybe if you're lucky an accident will kill a friend of someone.

And the crowd will laugh and sputter and say, "Wow, what a good accident."

And listen closely to the wind telling the deaf the truth. Feed your child, mother, on Skippy and his all important one-a-day multiple pill. Do not needlessly accuse the poet of symbolic perversion.

He realizes his error. Cannot you see yours, holy infidel?

Remember, little hen, the sky is falling, and much too soon.

—John Sanden

U. S. Universities Realize New Role In Human Affairs

"The student is at the university to learn—not to manage; to reflect—not to decide; to observe—not to coerce," states Dr. James A. Perkins, President of Cornell University.

His enlightening and unsentimental ideas about education, first introduced publicly in a lecture series at Princeton University last November, were published Feb. 28 by the

Princeton University Press in his latest book, "The University in Transition."

As for the faculty, Doctor Perkins believes that the nature of knowledge today is such that it requires minds and talents which are different from those needed to make administrative decisions. He emphasizes that faculties should be freed of administrative duties which interfere with actual academic progress. He further

Women Attend National Convocation Of Honorary Educational Fraternity

MSC Kappa Delta Pi members Wava Tackett, Tabor, Iowa, Judy Thatch, Kansas City, and Mary Mast, Excelsior Springs, attended the education society's biennial national convocation recently in Houston, Tex.

In addition to attending a general business meeting, delegates, alternate delegates, and visitors worked to revise national rules and elected officers for the national council. Members attending the convocation were divided into committees to discuss various phases of education.

Miss Tackett attended the discussion group concerning the rights and responsibilities states that public service activities of the faculty can be justified only if these services feed back information into research and teaching.

Doctor Perkins suggests that the university in America is moving through a transitional period of rapid changes as it adjusts to a new place in human affairs.

"Those who want academic direction to remain in academic hands have no choice but to learn how to balance their desire for independence with the necessities for close university collaboration," Dr. Perkins states, in pointing out that the university must find ways to become much more involved in the larger system of higher education.

He further observes, "The only alternative will be a far more direct intervention in university affairs by government agencies. And none of us looks comfortably on that prospect."

Doctor Perkins concludes that the university, "as the one institution in the hierarchy of education, where the main business of education is centered, must be the chief participant, the spark plug, the leader in the whole system of higher education." The health of the system, according to the Cornell president, leans heavily on the "staff" of vitality and health of the university, which is located in the middle of the entire scheme.

of teachers. Miss Mast worked in the group that discussed programs and activities. She discovered that the Zeta Lambda chapter here is one of the most active chapters.

Miss Mast pointed out that, since Kappa Delta Pi is an honorary society, the national president does not think that local chapters should have an active role in campus life. He feels that the society should be strictly honorary. She also mentioned that many delegates disagreed with him.

The girls were impressed by the number of members who attended the convocation from many parts of the United States. In referring to their experience, Miss Thatch stated, "Attending a national meeting such as this makes one realize the loyalty and responsibility he has to the national organization."

All of the girls stated that the first general business meeting was the most impressive one. They had never before seen a large group of executives in action. Miss Tackett commented, "I have never learned so much so fast about parliamentary procedure."

The men of Alpha Kappa Lambda fraternity announce the election of officers which include Gary McCollough, president; Don Brader, vice-president; Fred Fischbach, secretary; Mark Fer, treasurer; and Larry McDaniel, housemanager.
